WRITER OF THE MONTH: JESSE BLAZE SNIDER

So how did you get involved with BOOM! Studios?

So you've got to be pretty psyched then working on MUPPET SNOW WHITE!

I approached Boom Kids' editor, Aaron Sparrow about doing a Muppet Show special (guest star). After that (and a few ideas for Toy Story or Monsters Inc. pitches,) I sent him the pitch for "The Return of Buzz Lightyear" and the rest is history!

Not bad for a chance meeting on the floor of Comic-Con! So it's safe to say the Muppets are your first love?

I'm over the moon! So far it's been the best living. And right now on top of doing what I love to do, I'm working with the characters that have always made me most happy.

Seeing as you're writing two titles for BOOM! STUDIO, do you have anything to say to Disney about MONSTERS INC. and UP?

First, I say that Pixar movies and the Muppets were never meant for kids; they were meant for EVERYONE and our comic books are no different. And who he turned on to comics? ME! I even went on to write them. Guess who I'm comic book store to be a comic fan for too!

Hi, MONSTER'S INC. character, you're dying to see in print!

I love them all, as far as I'm concerned. Pixar can do no wrong. Their short films and feature lengths, I'm really a fan first. I'm not sure exactly why, maybe because Sully looks like a blue version of one of my favorite Muppets, Sweetums, but MONSTERS INC. is my favorite Pixar movie, with UP a close second. I know we did a MONSTERS INC. comic already, but I'd really like to see more and if we're doing an UP series they better give me a chance to write one!

high-voiced talking dogs ALPHA? You will rue the day you crossed me. Small. Mad Man!" =) common quality: none of them would ever give up being who they were and doing what they wanted to do. The Muppets always persevered. I think I'm like that and I'm not sure I would be able to do that without them.

On DVD AND VHS and a bunch of stuff them are children, and just because the kids aren't complaining on online message boards doesn't mean they're not there. Jim Henson is my idol.
